

Aim

The Trust's objective is to provide an above average level of income, income growth and long-term growth of capital through a policy of investing mainly in higher yielding UK FTSE 100 companies.

Risks & Features

Investment trusts are quoted companies listed on the London Stock Exchange. Their share prices are determined by factors including demand, or lack of, which means that the shares may trade below (at a discount to) or above (at a premium to) the underlying net asset value.

Merchants seeks to enhance returns for its shareholders through gearing, in the form of long-term, fixed rate debentures. Gearing can boost the Trust's returns when investments perform well, though losses can be magnified when investments lose value. You should be aware that this Trust may be subject to sudden and large falls in value and you could suffer substantial capital loss. Derivatives are used to manage the trust efficiently.

History

The Trust was incorporated in February 1889, making it the oldest of the investment trusts in the RCM stable. Initially it principally invested in the fixed interest securities of railway companies in the USA, Canada and South America, with the remainder held in Government securities and companies such as Castlemaine Brewery in Western Australia. The Trust now concentrates primarily upon major UK companies with an above average rate of dividend yield.

Fund Manager's Review

Simon Gergel

The stockmarket continued to rally strongly in August in response to improving confidence surveys and signs of stabilisation in Western economies. The FTSE 100 Index rose 6.5%, with the more cyclical mid and small cap indices up over 10%. The rally was led by financial and industrial sectors whilst mining was flat and defensive sectors and consumer cyclicals were mixed.

The portfolio (+9.83% NAV terms) outperformed the rising market, benefitting from relatively low exposure to the mining sector and a strong performance from the industrial company Melrose and the utility Centrica. There were fewer negatives but the low exposure to banking had an impact and the large position in BAE Systems was also a drag as their shares underperformed.

We took advantage of the strong rally in consumer stocks over the previous six months to reduce positions in companies like Inchcape and GKN and to sell the remaining position in Marshalls. Conversely, we added Reckitt Benckiser to the portfolio which we believe it is attractively valued. We also introduced British Land to increase the real estate exposure.

We continue to be concerned about high debt levels at the consumer, corporate and government levels which will restrain medium term economic activity, even if there is a strong short term bounce back from depressed levels. Market valuations are still reasonable but the best value is in more defensive sectors like pharmaceuticals and utilities.

³A trust's net asset value (NAV) is calculated as available shareholders' funds divided by the number of shares in issue, with shareholders' funds taken to be the net value of all the company's assets after deducting liabilities. In line with current industry best practice NAVs are now shown to take into account the 'fair value' of debt. This means NAVs are calculated after allowing for the valuation of debt at fair value or current market price, rather than at final repayment value. NAVs with debt at market value provide a more realistic impact of the cost of debt, and thus a more realistic discount. It is the capital NAV that is shown, which excludes any income.

Standardised past performance figures comply with the Financial Services Authority's regulations to enable investors to compare different products from different providers.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. You should not make any assumptions on the future on the basis of performance information. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market fluctuations and you may not get back the amount originally invested.

This investment trust charges 65% of its annual management fee to the capital account and 35% to revenue. This could lead to a higher level of income but capital growth will be constrained as a result. Your capital could also decrease if income paid out of capital exceeds the growth rate of the trust.

RCM Advantage

RCM and its predecessors have been managing investment trusts since 1889, providing investors with access to investment markets around the world through professionally managed portfolios. Each trust benefits from the expertise of the RCM fund managers yet, as a company listed on the London Stock Exchange, it is independent and is overseen by its own Board of Directors.

RCM is the global equity specialist within Allianz Global Investors. With offices strategically located in the US, Europe and Asia, RCM uses its global research platform to search out investment opportunities.
