

Aim

The Trust's objective is to provide an above average level of income, income growth and long-term growth of capital through a policy of investing mainly in higher yielding UK FTSE 100 companies.

Risks & Features

Investment trusts are quoted companies listed on the London Stock Exchange. Their share prices are determined by factors including demand, or lack of, which means that the shares may trade below (at a discount to) or above (at a premium to) the underlying net asset value.

Merchants seeks to enhance returns for its shareholders through gearing, in the form of long-term, fixed rate debentures. Gearing can boost the Trust's returns when investments perform well, though losses can be magnified when investments lose value. You should be aware that this Trust may be subject to sudden and large falls in value and you could suffer substantial capital loss.

History

The Trust was incorporated in February 1889, making it the oldest of the investment trusts in the RCM stable. Initially it principally invested in the fixed interest securities of railway companies in the USA, Canada and South America, with the remainder held in Government securities and companies such as Castlemaine Brewery in Western Australia. The Trust now concentrates primarily upon major UK companies with an above average rate of dividend yield.

Fund Manager's Review

Simon Gergel

Economic news was generally more positive in June with increasing evidence that the period of sharp global retrenchment and destocking was drawing to a close.

After an extremely volatile start to the year the stockmarket was calmer in June, posting a decline of just over 3%, although there were still some large sector fluctuations. The best performing sectors included fixed-line telecommunications, technology hardware and personal goods with banks, oils and mining amongst the big decliners.

Our performance was slightly ahead of the index boosted by the sector strategy with limited exposure to banks and mining. Stocks that aided performance included BT, IG Group and Vodafone which all posted strong gains. There were fewer negatives but Reed Elsevier and Centrica fell back and not owning Diageo which rallied was also a negative factor. Within the portfolio the biggest transactions were taking some money out of BP after the strong rise in recent months has reduced its attractions and adding to HSBC which looks to be relatively well placed as the world, and especially Asia, comes out of the downturn. We also continued adding to Bunzl and International Power, two relatively new purchases.

Looking forward, whilst the world seems to have avoided the risk of a collapse of the financial system, there are still significant economic headwinds. The high debt burdens of consumers, companies and, increasingly, governments are likely to mean any economic recovery is muted and protracted even if we see a shorter term boost from restocking. The equity market is attractively valued but much of the value lies in large, cash-generative and relatively defensive business where we have a large exposure. Elsewhere we continue to find interesting investment opportunities in many sectors of the market.

<sup>3</sup>A trust's net asset value (NAV) is calculated as available shareholders' funds divided by the number of shares in issue, with shareholders' funds taken to be the net value of all the company's assets after deducting liabilities. In line with current industry best practice NAVs are now shown to take into account the 'fair value' of debt. This means NAVs are calculated after allowing for the valuation of debt at fair value or current market price, rather than at final repayment value. NAVs with debt at market value provide a more realistic impact of the cost of debt, and thus a more realistic discount. It is the capital NAV that is shown, which excludes any income.

Standardised past performance figures comply with the Financial Services Authority's regulations to enable investors to compare different products from different providers.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. You should not make any assumptions on the future on the basis of performance information. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market fluctuations and you may not get back the amount originally invested.

This investment trust charges 65% of its annual management fee to the capital account and 35% to revenue. This could lead to a higher level of income but capital growth will be constrained as a result. Your capital could also decrease if income paid out of capital exceeds the growth rate of the trust.
